College System
Integrated Resource Plan 2010-13

Framework

Mandate:
York University has eight faculty-affiliated colleges on the Keele and one on the Glendon Campus. These colleges were created between the mid-1960s and the late 1970s with a two-fold mission:

- to provide meaningful communities for students, and enhance the student experience for both residential and commuter students by providing an environment in which students have access to faculty and staff who can assist them with problems and provide academic and personal guidance
- to provide a locus for interdisciplinary interaction amongst faculty in support of their teaching and research

Colleges are responsible for delivering co-curricular programming integrated with the affiliated Faculties that engages students in University life, complements student academic pursuits, contributes to student success and retention, and fosters positive life long connections to the institution. Within the general goal of the colleges to enhance the student experience, the colleges have a particular responsibility for facilitating the transition to university and enhancing the experience of first year students.

Colleges serve as “neighbourhoods” of a large metropolitan academic city. It is through these smaller enclaves that students have the opportunity to meet and engage with fellow students, staff and especially faculty members. York colleges are small interdisciplinary communities, with distinctive characters and mandates that offer a welcoming, innovative and convivial environment supportive of students' successful adjustment to the university and the successful completion of their degree requirements.

Under the leadership of the Masters, the College communities provide a collegial atmosphere and stimulating intellectual environment for both students and faculty members. The leadership and programming of the Colleges enhances the quality of the intellectual, recreational, social, and cultural life of the student and faculty members of the College.

Vision:
Creating vibrant communities within the University that promote the engagement of faculty and students in intellectual and social pursuits. This engagement/interaction directly supports the University’s Academic and Strategic priorities.

Core Functional Areas:
The College system is comprised of nine colleges (listed below) that provide a wide range of academic and extracurricular activities to complement the instructional programs of the affiliated Faculties to enrich the experience of the York student and actively engage College fellows. The table below outlines the Colleges’ Faculty and program affiliations after the creation of the new Faculty of Liberal and Professional Studies.
The Council of College Communities (CoCC) is the governing body for the College System. To ensure consistency across the system and the fulfillment of the College System mandate, the CoCC approves the College system mandate, strategic plans and is responsible for coordinating the activities of all the individual Colleges. The CoCC is an advisory body to the Vice-President Academic and Vice-President Students on matters related to mission and mandate of the College system.

The co-curricular programs and services the Colleges offer fall under 3 broad categories noted from a-c below:

a) Student engagement, retention and co-curricular programs:

- academic and social orientation
- academic advising for first-year and upper-year students (in coordination with advising provided by Faculty Advising Centres, departmental and program advisors, the Registrar’s Office, Counselling and Development, and other advisors)
- co-curricular activities for affiliated programs
- college student governments

b) Faculty engagement, interaction and retention programs:

- faculty member interaction outside discipline/department
- (conferences and other special events that allow faculty to meet and exchange ideas)
c) General programming and services for students and faculty:
   - Lecture/speaker series
   - Career days and other general interest programs
   - Community outreach programs
   - Convocation assistance
   - Provide common rooms, study areas, computer labs and recreational rooms for members
   - Support/work with residence programming/RLCs
   - Hosting social events for members
   - Academic and recreational student clubs
   - Intramural sports, musical and artistic activities
   - Developing/supporting Alumni Chapters
   - College newspapers and other media
   - Contacts and friendships

Guiding Principles:
The following principles and values are espoused by members and staff of the College system to support communities within the University that students and faculty are actively engaged in:
   - Student focus, enhancing the student experience, providing support, knowledge and opportunities to enhance confidence and success of students
   - Shared leadership and collaborative integration with Faculties
   - College system as an interdisciplinary model
   - York as a city – the college as a neighbourhood, promote student involvement and creating a sense of connectedness with the University
   - Trust and collegiality
   - Transparency and engagement in decision making
   - Enhance interaction among students, faculty/fellows and between students, faculty/fellows.

Planning Context:
The following factors impact the strategic planning process of College System:
   - Implementing recommendations from Task Force Report
   - College reporting line changes
   - Growing student population; increased diversity and composition of students; greater time spent working; and commuter students
   - UAP and emphasis on student experience
   - Increased teaching, research and service demands on faculty
   - Availability of appropriate resources to support College System
   - The report of the Task Force on Student Life
   - The Green Paper/White paper process with its emphases on engagement, community and the student experience

Relationship with Government:
Action Plan

Priority 1: Enhance the Student Learning Experience
Consistent with the findings of the Task Force on Colleges and the Task Force on Student Life, and in support of the University Academic Plan and the Green Paper/White Paper process, the Colleges will intensify their efforts to improve student engagement at the University and enhance the student experience.
